

13% to 25% of respondents agree with statements supporting or not condemning violence against refugees

